PREVENT DELAY IN PATE APPEAL

President Suggests That Simmons or Mallory Amendment Be Added to Bill.

CONFERENCE WITH SENATORS

(Hy Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, April 13.-Railroad rate

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Railroad rate legislation again was a topic of important discussion to-day at the White House. The President talked over the subject with Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, one of the stanch supporters of rate regulation and later discussed it with Senators Simmons and Overman, of North Carolina. The President suggested to Senator Neison that in his judgment it would be wise to attach to the Hepburn bill either the ameridment offered by Senator Simmons or that by Senator Mallory, of Florida, both of which are designed to prevent unusual delay in the consideration of applications for temporary injunctions. The proposed amendments provide that proceedings for preliminary injunctions must be begun before the rate fixed by the commission goes into effect. The complainant must begin proceedings within fitteen days after any given rate fixed by the commission and the notification has been received. Ten days then are allowed for the taking of testimony and the return of papers. In thirty-live days, all the facts in the case must be ready for submission to the court on a motion for a temporary injunction. Such an amendment, it is believed by the advocates of rate regulation, would insure a speedy would prevent the delays which they fear.

Later, when Senators Simmons and car, prevent the delays which they car.

Later, when Senators Simmons and overman called with a delegation of Chartite, N. C., men to invite the President of deliver an address on the occasion of the celebration of the Mecklenburg echaration of independence on May 20—a invitation the President felt obliged decline—he talked with them regarding e proposed amendment. It is known a President told them about what he de told Senator Nelson. It is regarded to likely that such an amendment may adopted.

Among the general bills passed, was one increasing the pensions of ex-solders who lost limbs in the service, another retiring and pensioning petty officers and men of the army, navy and marine corps after thirty years' of service at three-fourths their regular pay, and a third bill increasing the pensions of ex-Mexican War soldiers to $20 per month and make

Jefferson. The principal speakers were Governor Joseph W. Folk, United States
Senator William J. Stone, Congressman
Charles A. Towne, of New York, and Charles W. Knapp, of the St. Louis Republic. All the speakers made a plea, for party harmony in this State, and all predicted that at the next election Missouri would again be found in the Demcoratic column.

It was predicted at the business meeting of the press association that the Democrats would be successful at the next national election, and that the nomineo for President in 1968, "whether it be Folk, Bryan or Towne," will be electod by a large plurality. Governor Folk, in his address, said in part:

"The time has come when the people will no longer respond to mere party names. Parties must stand for something and mean something, must be a positive force, not a mere negative quantity. Whatever may be said of the accomplishment of any party in days gone by, the question is now,
not what the Democratic party did fifty years ago, but what they stand for now and what do they propose now? The way to determine this is not merely by reading the platforms,
but by finding out what the candidates
represent; whether they are honest
and courageous, whether they are honest
and courageous, whether they are honest
and courageous, whether they are honest
and the lawless elements. It is a very good rule to follow, to ascertain on which side the cammics of the people and of representative governments are fighting, and then get on the other side and oppose them. One may rest nesured that he cannot be far from right."

J. Stone lamented the fact 'that in the three large cities of Missouri, containing one-third of the people of the State, only one daily newspaper out of the total of ten pretended to be Democratic.

Turning to national politics, he averred that President Roosevelt's administration ought not to inspire Democratic adulation. He added:

"Although obstrusive, audaclous and spectacular, Roosevelt's career, as I view it, has been signalized by weakness, not strength; by vaccilation, not stondfastness; by vainglory, not solid worth. For whatever he may do that is right, give credit. I am neither for him nor against him. I simply take him for what he is. I will support bim when he is right, but I shall not court him with hlandishments nor swell his vanity by blowing upon him the incense of flattery. Counsel Battling With Each Other As to Valuable Property Interests.

BOTH SIDES SEEM WILLING MILD SENSATION IS SPRUNG

Divorced Husband of Mrs. Wal len's Sister on Scene-Will Probably End Tuesday.

The case of the heirs of the late James deeds conveying his property to his third wife and widow, was again the feature in the Chancery Court yesterday, and a large number of withbases were examined. Attorneys are sharply contesting every point in the case, and several times the jury was sent out in order that questions relating to the admissibility of testimony might be argued before His Honor, Judge Grinnan.

The real sensation of the day came in the afternoon. It arose over testimony which sought to establish that Mrs. G. A. Paul, of Newport News, a sister of Mrs. Wallen, had been separated from her husband on account of her alleged fondness for a huan named Frank Hugh.

Both Showed Up.

Both Showed Up.

Both Showed Up.

Both Paul and Hugh turned up in court yesterday. Messrs. Pollard and Pollard, representing Mrs. Wallen, fought to exclude Paul's testimony, and the Jury was sent out. The man finally testified.

It was brought out that after the separation between Paul and his wife, the latter came to Hichmond and stopped with the Wallens.

It seems that Paul went to Mr. Wallen's home one day to get some papers, and found Hugh there. Warm words followed, and probable trouble was prevented only through the intervention of Mr. Wallen.

Later, it is said that Mr. Wallen, who felt friendly to Paul, said he regretted the visits of Hugh to his house, but added: "I can't do anything about it; my hands are tied."

Its Object Stated.

The object of the contestants in offering this testimony was to seek to further establish their contention that Mr. Walten, an old man, was constantly under the influence of his wife, who was much younger than he.

The evidence in the case will probably be consluded to-day, though it will hardly reach the Jury before Inte Monday or probably Tuesday.

About $40,000 is the amount involved, and the battle is a strenguous one.

The seven children who seek to upset the papers of conveyance are represented by Judge A. L. Holladay and Hon. C. W. Throckmorton, while Messrs. Pollard and Follard are looking after Mrs. Wallen's interests.
